INTRODUCTORY STATEMENT

BY BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Park College is located in the village of Parkville on the K. C. St. J. & C. B. R. R., nine miles above Kansas City, of which metropolis a train service of eleven trains a day, makes it practically a suburb. The college buildings as a rule, have been located upon the bluffs overlooking the Missouri River. The hills have been terraced to receive them by student labor, and from every standpoint of beauty and of health, the location is an ideal one. It is now twenty-four years since Park College had its humble beginnings that were visible to the world. In fact its beginnings date back much further than 1875. For many years, two men unknown to each other, had felt the same need, and tried to meet it. The need is tersely expressed in the following paragraph from the Charter expressing the purpose of the founders of Park College: "The object of this corporation shall ever be, to diffuse knowledge, moral and religious principles, in the most practical and effectual manner. To afford the advantages of training and education to the youth of both sexes, of the country: to give especially facilities to youth found worthy and not having sufficient means, who may be innured to hardship, to obtain an education by labor or otherwise."

In June 1850 Geo. S. Park one of the pioneer settlers of the Platte purchase, laid out a tract of land as a "college site." Col. Park had been a faithful elder, and active worker in all Christian lines for many years in that locality. Keenly observant and interested in the progress of affairs, he saw the moral and mental desert about him. He saw the aggressive spirit of the Catholic church and the strenuous effort to occupy the point of vantage—working, studying, praying over these problems he became convinced that great good could be done, great success and stability attained, by an Institution of learning whose principal object should be the study of the Scriptures, and practical drill in methods of Christian work. He felt that an Institution could be a success based,

I. Upon the study of the Bible.

II. A course in the liberal arts for mental development and broad culture.

III. A practical training in all those things needed in the common walks of life. In short that an Institution, that added to learning, instruction in the Christian virtues, and to those economy and wisdom in the every day affairs of life, was, under careful direction and supervision, bound to succeed.

The college site laid out in 1850 remained but a site for many years. The ante slavery agitation, especially to the admission of Kansas as a state, became violent, and Mr. Park who championed the right of Kansas, to decide for herself the question of slavery, was for the time driven from his home, his property wrecked, and his printing press thrown into the river by the mob. Returning however before the civil war, he was yet delayed in his plans by the war and disorder following its termination. In 1872 however he went to Platte Presbytery with these plans and offers of buildings, money and lands. The offer was not accepted, but it was the seed that bore as its fruit, Park College. The offer became widely known, and God raised up a helper for this work.

Rev. John A. McAfee D. D. having worked his way through College, began immediately seeking a way to meet the same need which had impressed Mr. Park. His own experience fitted him to enter into sympathy with those who were debarred from an education by lack of money. His early efforts were signally successful in the quality of men and women trained for Christian service, but from a financial standpoint were prophesies of failure. There would have been failure, but, that a God given idea cannot be crushed. He realized as perhaps few men do, that God had ordained him to a special work. Difficulties sprung up at the very threshold, and in some form held place until the pearly gates were lifted, and he was ushered into the mansions of heavenly rest and certainty: But to him the command to "Go forward" was never recalled. In 1875 these two men, Geo. Shepard Park and Rev. John A. McAfee met; and each recognizing in the other a kindred spirit combined their forces in the establishment of Park College. With the same purposes and ideals in view they in a wonderful degree supplemented each other.

The one conservative and with unerring business instinct. The other enthusiastic, and capable of arousing enthusiasm in others. Great in planning and persistent to accomplish. Both devoted to the work at hand.

Both men were called from their earthly labors before seeing a large measure of success.

It was a dark day for Park College when on June 9, 1890 we stood around Mr. Park's grave and paid our tearful homage to one who had conceived and cherished throughout a long life the idea of the institution. Just one week from that day, June 16th 1890, we stood beside Dr. McAfee's grave. Associated for fifteen years in developing and establishing the peculiar educational idea for which Park College stands, they were called to their reward within one week. "They rest from their labors, and their works do follow them."

From that time the work has been in the hands of the Board of Trustees with the loyal and efficient service of Mrs. Dr. McAfee and her children all of whom are now engaged in the work. What the growth has been must be told in a few words.

The work of instruction begun May 12, 1875 with 20 students enrolled has continued until now the attendance by actual count is 358. In 1879 the first class was graduated and without exception a class has been sent forth every year since that time until her roll of graduates now number 323, every one a Christian. And this too with the degree of A. B., based upon a curriculum of study and requirement as high as other colleges having only the course in liberal arts. It would occupy too much space to attempt a resume of the progress or give the present status of the college, although such will be gladly furnished on request and may appear to some extent elsewhere in this catalogue. To sum up in a few words, Park College is now on an enduring foundation. She offers first class facilities in buildings, equipment, curriculum of studies and faculty to those desirous of obtaining a thorough education, and to those who are unable to obtain an education except by the aid of their own exertions aside from study she offers an opportunity if the conditions be met. To all, she offers the advantages to be derived from a Christian environment.

GENERAL STATEMENTS.

BUILDINGS.

The stone building, which was for so many years the only home of Park College, has been reconstructed and remodeled. It is now used for dormitories for young men and bears the name Woodward Hall, in memory of the late Rev. Geo. S. Woodward.

McCormick Chapel was erected in 1887. Here the religious exercises of the institution are held. The Presbyterian Church of the village also uses it for public worship. It has a seating capacity of eight hundred.

Mackay was begun in 1887, and was occupied March 13th, 1893. It is a stone building, three stories and a basement. The third floor is arranged for Literary Society Halls and Lecture Halls. The first and second floors are used for lecture rooms. In the basement are located the Biological and Chemical Laboratories. Thirty-two desks in the Biological Laboratory are equipped with compound and dissecting microscopes, dissecting cases and other accessories necessary for thorough biological study. The Chemical Laboratory accommodates thirty-two students and is fitted with the usual reagents and equipment.

The Charles Smith Scott Observatory, erected and equipped by Mr. Anthony Dey, New York City, has just been completed. The equipment consists of an eight inch equatorial, with the usual attachments of micrometer, helioscope and full set of eye pieces; a four and one half inch equatorial, a compound transit and zenith telescope of a three inch aperture; a chronograph and sidereal clock. The latter is of German manufacture and was imported specially for the College.

The institution has nine dormitories and homes for students, eleven private residences occupied by members of the Faculty and those directly connected with the work of the institution.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION.

A prominent feature of the institution has always been the religious instruction. The regular chapel exercises are held at one o'clock each day. All students are required to be present, being provided with a singing book and Bible. Each one must join in the exercises. A half-hour is thus spent. The Spirit of God in the past has wonderfully owned and blessed the presentation of the Word in these exercises. A few of the visiting friends who have been with us at that hour since the last issue of the catalogue are:

Rev. W. S. Nelson, D. D.,	Tripoli, Syria.
Rev. Thos. C. Winn,	Kanazawa, Japan.

The Day of Prayer for Colleges, Jan. 26, '99, was observed by a Faculty Prayer meeting; a similar meeting by each class, College, and Academy; the regular noon chapel service; and two special addresses by Rev. James M. Wilson, D. D., Omaha, Nebr.

READING ROOM AND LIBRARY.

A large, well-lighted room in Mackay has been set apart for this department until a Library Building can be erected. In the College Reading Room will be found most of the leading religious papers of the Presbyterian Church, and a number of those of other denominations. The principal magazines are also on file. Helps on the Sabbath Lesson and Mission Literature, both Home and Foreign, are conspicuous. The library of general literature has a place in the Reading Room until permanent quarters can be provided for it. The library contains 12000 volumes of books and 5000 copies of magazines. 476 copies have been bound. Pool's Index makes the magazines specially serviceable for reference.

During the year Mr. Stanley R. McCormick, Chicago, Ill., sent us $4200 worth of books. The selection of the volumes was made by the several members of the Faculty having in mind the needs of their departments. To the list was added a large number of volumes of a general character. Thus has been secured a library eminently suited to the needs of a college. The Dewey system has been used for the classification and catalogue; a librarian, well qualified for the position, has guided and to a large extent, controlled the reading of the student body; while proving specially helpful to the different Professors in supplying references to the students for classroom work. Our gratitude to Mr. McCormick for the liberal and timely gift can not be adequately expressed. The effect of a good library can not be told. Consciously or unconsciously its helpful tendency is ever present, and is making its impress upon the work of every class in College and Academy. A number of volumes have been received from other friends, to whom, as a college, students, Faculty and Board of Trustees, we are very grateful.

BOOK ROOM.

A peculiar feature of the work of the institution is the text book department of the library. Most of the text books used by the students are owned by the College and furnished the students for class room work. When the term's work has been completed the books are returned to the book room and stored for use the following year. In this way the same book will answer for several successive classes. There are 3464 volumes in this department. Contributions of text books will be much appreciated.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

College and Third and Fourth year students have been organized into independent associations for usual Literary and Society work. Three halls in Mackay have been furnished and are controlled by them. The Philolexian, composed of young men of the Academy classes, occupies Bullard Hall. Parchevard (young men) and the Calliopean Society (young women) occupy Park Hall. The Lowell Literary Club (young men) and the Lucerne Society (young women) occupy Cheever

Hall. The young men hold their meetings Saturday evening and the young ladies Monday evening of each week. A literary program consisting of recitations, essays, orations, discussions and debates, occupies the time of each. Park has reason to be proud of her literary societies and the work being done by them.

ORATORICAL ASSOCIATION.

In 1888 an Oratorical Association was organized as a part of the Inter-Collegiate Association of the state of Missouri. Two local contests are held each year on successive evenings. The successful contestant represents the College in the State contest held once a year. The Oratorical Association is a very helpful feature in increasing the interest in oratory. Park was represented in the Inter-Collegiate contest in 1897 by Perl D. Decker '97 who won first place. He represented the state in the Inter-state contest held May 6, '97, at Columbia, Mo. At this contest he won first place. In 1898 the College was represented by Geo. M. McBride, '98; in 1899 by Alphonse R. DesJardien '99.

THE MUSEUM.

A start has been made toward a Museum of Natural History. The available space in the second-floor hall, the office, and the Biology room is occupied by cases and the curios and specimens at hand are in place, the majority of them being classified.

These collections include skeletons of the cat and frog, skulls of the sheep, horse and fish, three type specimens of each class of Invertebrates; together with eggs of the fish and seaurchin. The insect cabinet contains one thousand local insects, among which are seven hundred Lepidoptera and two hundred Coleoptera, with several rare specimens from New York and California. Many of these are duplicates.

Botany is represented by fifty native wood sections, and by an herbarium of the plants of New York, the gift of S. J. Teran, with the early summer flora of Missouri.

The Educational Series of rocks furnished by the U. S. Geological Survey includes one hundred and fifty rocks, minerals and fossils from all parts of the country, carefully arranged and labeled. With these appear some local geodes and Lamellibranches. A few very valuable specimens of gold and silver ores, some beautiful abilone shells, corals and Echimoderns from the Pacific have been recently donated by Mrs. Geo. Lawrence in memory of her son Park.

Park graduates on the mission fields have generously favored their Alma Mater. Rev. Frank D. Hickman's collection of African weapons, musical instruments, house hold utensils wearing apparel, rosaries and idols is an object of interest. Rev. Hugh Taylor, Mrs. Jeannie H. McClure and others have contributed Siamese coins and models. Rev. Jas. Rennie has added some rare Colorado minerals.

Extensive travel is permitted to very few, but every new addition to our Museum brings nearer the countries and peoples across the sea and the distant parts of our own land with its varied flora and fauna. Any gifts of cabinets or specimens our friends may see fit to bestow will be greatly appreciated and enjoyed.

DEGREES.

The degree, A. B. is given to each student who completes the course.

The degree Litt. B. (Litterarum Baccalaureae) is given to youngladies who complete the "L. B. course," (see course of study.)

The degrees A. M. and Litt. M. (Magister Artium and Litterarum) will be given, "only upon satisfactory examinations in Post-Graduate studies as arranged by the Faculty, and not earlier than two years after graduation, when non-resident work is done or after one year of resident work. This rule to become operative at once with the provision that former graduates may obtain degrees on the old terms within two years from the next Commencement."—Minutes of Board of Trustees, June, '93.

DEPARTMENT STATEMENTS.

DEPARTMENT OF GREEK.

Prof. J. E. McAfee.

FRESHMAN YEAR. The Sophomore L. B. students are classed with the Freshmen A. B., and Greek is required throughout the year. The first and second terms are devoted to the Epic literature with such attention to Attic prose writings as shall keep the students in touch with Attic standards. One half or more of the third term is devoted to the New Testament Greek and the remainder to classical prose writings.

SOPHOMORE YEAR. The work is required for all A. B. students not taking Latin. First Term.—Lysias. Introduction to Greek Oratory. The class of 1901 represented an Athenian law court held in McCormick Chapel at which all the Greek students of College and Academy were in attendance. The Mantisheus and Grain Dealers' orations were translated and used in their places in the proceedings. Second Term.—Plato. Introduction to Greek Philosophy. The Apology of Socrates is regularly analyzed and a broader view taken of Plato's works. Third Term.—Sophocles. Introduction to Greek Drama. The Antigone is regularly analyzed. Members of the class of 1900 presented Euripides' Medea before a large audience in McCormick Chapel. The translation was made by the students.

Junior-and-Senior electives in the classics have been arranged, the first term of Junior year in Greek being required for Juniors not electing other language study. Five hours per week may be devoted to either classic language during any term of the Junior and Senior years. Members of the two classes being thrown together the same course will not be followed in immediately successive years. Space is not allowed for the adequate outlining of the courses which are feasible. Below are bare suggestions. The student is encouraged to consult freely with the instructor and observe announcements which are made from time to time.

1. NEW TESTAMENT. There is much available apparatus for critical study.

2. HISTORY. Critical times may be studied minutely through the ancient and modern historians, or more extended periods studied broadly.

3. PHILOSOPHY. The Sophists, Plato, Aristotle and the later schools.

4. ORATORY. Demosthenes most fully repays study.

5. TRAGEDY. Worthy of division into several terms' work.

6. COMEDY. Aristophanes and history of comedy in the Hellenistic period.

7. THE HELLENISTIC WORLD. History. The so-called literature of the decadence. Even the early patristic literature.

8. EPIC LITERATURE. Advanced work on Homer and pieces of the Epic Cycle.

9. LYRIC POETRY. Pindar and the later poets.

10. MODERN GREEK. Will be found profitable occasionally.

11. SEMITICS. A course in elementary Hebrew, with attention to the contact of Semitic and Greek culture. For Seniors' middle term, when thought advisable, followed by a seminary in reading Hebrew, one hour per week, during the spring term if desired. The Theological Seminaries strongly recommend that students come prepared with some knowledge of Hebrew. For men about to enter the seminaries, this course may be found desirable.

DEPARTMENT OF MATHEMATICS AND ASTRONOMY.

Prof. Mattoon.

The Freshmen pursue the study of the Essentials of Plane and Spherical Trigonometry (Mattoon), during the winter term. This is followed by a term of Surveying and Civil Engineering. The department is equipped with a transit, Y-level, chains, steel tape and levelling rod; and the principles of land surveying, irrigation, water-works and railroad engineering are studied by means of actual work in the field and by plotting the surveys that are made.

Students in the Classical Course, during the fall term of the Sophomore year, pursue the study of Loomis' Analytic Geometry, including all the essential properties of the conic sections and higher plane curves.

The same author's Differential and Integral Calculus may be elected for the remaining terms of the Sophomore year.

The rules for differentiation and integration are demonstrated, and their application to a wide range of practical examples is illustrated in problems solved by the students. During the spring term, weekly lessons are given in explanation of the apparatus in the Observatory, with special reference to the mathematics involved in its use.

In the Junior year, Young's General Astronomy is studied one term, covering practically the entire book. Particular attention is given to the laws of planetary motion, satellite systems and the subject of cosmogony. The more elementary mathematical computations receive sufficient attention to lay the foundation for the more rigid investigation to be pursued later in the course.

Two terms of Practical Astronomy, one in the Junior and one in the Senior year, are elective. Various reference books supply the principles that the students employ in computing occultations and eclipses. Time, latitude and longitude observations are taken, in which the students use the combined transit and zenith telescope and the chronograph. The equatorial telescope and its micrometer are used in the study of the planets and their satellites, double and multiple stars and nebulae.

DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY.

Prof. Burt.

GENERAL HISTORY. Myer's text gives an outline for a study of the great historical movements since Rome's fall. Lectures and assigned reading with essays, supplement the text.

ENGLISH HISTORY. The leading facts are acquired and an accurate knowledge of England's institutions, with their relations to other countries, is attempted. A text book, supplemented with lectures, is used. Written reviews, extra reading and outlines, or essays, are required of all.

HISTORY OF EDUCATION. Required of L. B. Juniors, winter term. Painter's History is used, with Compayre's and other works as references.

HISTORY OF AMERICAN POLITICS. Required study for A. B. Juniors, two hours, winter term. Johnston's American Politics is the text used. A course of collateral reading is outlined.

HISTORY OF CIVILIZATION. Required third term Senior, for all except those who have elected Zoology or Astronomy. Guizot's lectures on the History of Civilization of Modern Europe form the basis for the work in this subject. The text is supplemented by lectures. A thesis is required of each student.

CONSTITUTIONAL HISTORY OF ENGLAND. Elective for A. B. Juniors, 2½ hours winter term. The English Constitution by Jesse Macy is the text book.

DEPARTMENT OF BIOLOGY.

Prof. Findlay.

This department includes a study of the general principles governing life with a special application to plants and animals. The method of study is three-fold: first, the dissection of a typical specimen by each student according to an outline, second, reference reading on obscure points, third, lectures and quizzes. One catalogue hour in this department is reckoned as two in the laboratory.

General Biology occupies two hours a week during the fall and winter terms of the Junior year. Sedgwick and Wilson's General Biology is the text book.

Botany is required of the Juniors five hours in the spring term. The Morphology of the Phænogams receives most attention. Spaulding's Introduction to Botany is used in the laboratory coupled with references and written directions. Wood's American Botanist and Florist is the analysis guide used. An elective term of five hours weekly is open to the Seniors, fall term. Typical Algæ, Mosses, Liverworts, and Ferns of this locality, with the common allied marine forms are examined. Arthur, Barnes and Coulter's Plant Dissection is used with Campbell's Botany.

Zoology is required three hours in the fall term and is elective five hours weekly the remainder of the Senior year. The first term is devoted to the Arthropods, the second and third to the Vertebrates. Much care is taken that by dissections and drawings each one may acquire a thorough knowledge of two animals at least from each of the sub-kingdoms. Colton's Manual and Packard's Briefer Course are in the hands of the students, to be used with reference books. It is hoped that this course will prove of especial value to those expecting to study along medical lines.

In this work a small laboratory fee is charged to defray the cost of materials consumed and as rental for the compound microscopes and dissecting instruments.

Geology is at present classed with this department and is studied by the Seniors during the spring term. The formations and fossils of this locality are examined and compared with the museum specimens. Le Conte's Elements of Geology is the text.

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH.

Prof Verrill.

RHETORIC. For Freshmen, second term, Genung's Practical Rhetoric with semi-weekly themes.

LITERATURE. For Juniors and Seniors, English literature from Beowulf to Kipling. In 1898-'99, the course has been as follows:

Junior Year. First Term.—Chaucer's Prologue, Knight's Tale, and Nonne's Preeste's Tale; and Spenser's shorter poems. Second Term.—Shakspeare's Merchant of Venice, and Hamlet; Milton's Shorter Poems, and Paradise Lost, Bk. 1. Third Term.—Lyrics from Dryden to Burns; the literature of the nineteenth century from 1798 to 1832.

Senior Year. First Term.—The literature of the nineteenth century from 1832 to the present time. Second Term.—Survey of English prose, with Minto's Manual.

ENGLISH READING. Every student stands examination each term on at least one book selected from a prescribed course.

ELOCUTION. For Freshmen and Sophomores, weekly drill in themes and declamation; for Juniors and Seniors, weekly practice in debate and oration.

DEPARTMENT OF BIBLICAL HISTORY AND PRACTICAL CHRISTIAN TRAINING.

Prof S. L. McAfee.

Instruction in this department has a two-fold aim: first, to give a comprehensive understanding of the word of God, and second, to impart a ready skill in the use of this knowledge in the various lines of Christian activity.

The course is preceded by two years of preparation in the Academy.

NEW TESTAMENT HISTORY. The historical connection between the Old Testament and the New; the life of Christ and the History of the Apostolic Church.

BIBLICAL INTRODUCTION AND ANALYSIS. H. F. Sells' Bible Study by Books is used as a text and supplemented with lectures.

SABBATH SCHOOL WORK. History of the origin and growth of the modern Sabbath School; its government, forms of organization; duties and qualifications of officers and teachers; Institutes, Conventions. The instruction is given by lectures with class drills.

ORGANIZED CHRISTIAN WORK.—The aim is to gain an intelligent apprehension of the various organized agencies through which Christianity is advanced. Its starting point is the Church, its composition, its unity and its true succession. The various forms of organization it has assumed are considered, special prominence being given to the Presbyterian Polity. The agencies which the church has employed in the prosecution of its various lines of work, local, denominational and interdenominational, are studied.

EVIDENCES OF CHRISTIANITY. Alexander's text is used, with lectures. Theses are required. References to other accessible works are given, and the more modern anti-Christian objections are pointed out.

OUTLINES OF DOCTRINE. Reid's Pocket System of Theology is used as text, supplemented with lectures, and theses by the class.

SACRED RHETORIC. Lectures on Homiletics. Analysis of texts and exercises in preparation and delivery of discourses. Bible Readings and the practical use of the Bible in Christian work, with drill in methods of Lay Evangelism.

DEPARTMENT OF GERMAN.

Prof. Burt.

German is an elective study for four consecutive terms, beginning with winter term for A. B. Sophomores and L. B. Juniors. A thorough grammatical and reading knowledge is aimed at, and with this is combined work in composition. The work varies from year to year but the general outline is as follows:

FIRST TERM. Grammar, Joynes-Meissner; Reader, Brandt.

SECOND TERM. Grammar and Reader continued; Schiller's Wilhelm Tell; Sight Reading, Höher als die Kirche, "Onkel und Nichte," or "Der Schwiegersohn."

THIRD TERM. Grammar reviewed; Schiller's "Jungfrau," Lessing's "Minna von Barnhelm;" Selections from Heine's Prosa. Sight work, "Der Bibliothekar," "Köpnicker strosse," or "Drei Kleine Lustspiele."

FOURTH TERM. Grammar (Whitney's) with prose; Goethe's Faust, Part I; Heine's "Die Harzreise."

DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY.

Prof. C. B. McAfee.

PSYCHOLOGY. Professor Bowne's Introduction to Psychological Theory is used as a guide rather than as final authority. The method is introspective, and tests of observation and experience are constantly made. No laboratory work is attempted, but the results of the best experimental work are available. The object of the course is not primarily information but rather culture. Lectures are given on the development of the powers.

LOGIC. Dr. Davis' Elements of Deductive Logic is used. The study is practical and not theoretical, the presumption being that the study of Psychology has prepared the student for it. Special attention is paid to the so-called Square of Opposition, and to the fundamental fallacies. A large amount of writing is required, the marks including accuracy of expression.

PHILOSOPHY. Treated historically, the Instructor's Outline for a History of Philosophy furnishing the basis, with references to Seelye's Schwegler, Thilly's Weber and other standard works. The study is continued throughout the Senior year once or twice a week.

FORENSICS. Lectures are given on the principles of debate and the laws of evidence, and debates are held, with criticism by the instructor.

HISTORY OF ART. Conducted in seminar form. Van-Dyke's How to Judge a Picture and History of Painting are used. Some photographs of the masterpieces are available, and Kansas City art dealers kindly loan illustrations. This course is substituted by the young ladies in place of Ancient Philosophy, but is available for the men.

INTERNATIONAL LAW. Davis' Text is used, with many side references, and study of current events. Wharton's Digest is available. Effort is made to discover the relation between civilization and the extension of legal comity between states. Semi-public disputations are held in which current questions are disputed. Special attention is paid to the position of the United States in international questions.

MORAL SCIENCE. Calderwood's Handbook is used. The Intuitional theory is dogmatically stated and defended, and the Evolution and Utilitarian theories are examined. The study of the will is reserved for this course and is critically pursued. Discussions are frequent and lectures are given.

BUTLER'S ANALOGY. The text with Emory's Analysis is used, with discussions, papers and lectures.

DEPARTMENT OF LATIN.

Prof. Wolfe.

Latin is required throughout the Freshman year for all students, and for a portion of the class throughout Sophomore year and first term of Junior year. Thereafter it is elective throughout the course.

The library is now furnished with the latest and best works in Roman history, biography, literature, law, archaeology, epigraphy, art and daily life, to which constant reference is made. The work of the Latin course is thus directed to three ends, facile command of language, theory of verbal and syntactic formations and development, broad culture derived from acquaintance with Roman civilization on many sides. Latin prose is carried through the course.

LIVY. Portions of XXI and XXII with sight reading. Critical historical study of the period.

HORACE. Odes. Chiefly a literary study, noting the essential difference between poetic and prosaic modes of expression and illustrated from both Latin and English literature.

CICERO. De Senectute and De Amicitia. Collateral reading of Plutarch's Lives and modern essays on Old Age and Friendship. Illustrated lectures on Roman Antiquities with research and drawings by the class.

HORACE. Satires and Epistles with investigation of Roman private life and Philosophy.

PLAUTUS. Captivi and Trinummus. Theses by class upon Roman and Attic drama, production of plays, etc. This year the Plautinian prosody was illustrated by the production of the Captivi in the original.

JUVENAL AND LETTERS OF CICERO. Half a term each with comparison of Persius and Martial for the one, and of Seneca and Pliny for the other.

Electives open to Juniors and Seniors, courses offered on alternate years.

Tacitus, with historical survey of his times and of the Germanic tribes.

Latin Literature, reading, lectures and essays.

Roman Law, lectures with reading from institutes of Gaius and Justinian.

Roman Philosophy, Lucretius bk. V, Cicero, De Natura Deorum.

Roman Epigraphy, on basis of Egbert's Inscriptions.

Science of Language, lectures and reference work in the Carter Philological Library.

DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICS AND CHEMISTRY.

Prof. Dean.

PHYSICS. This branch of study is pursued by the Sophomore A. B. and the Junior L. B. students, during the fall and winter terms. The instruction is given by lessons, assigned in the text book, supplemented by lectures and references together with carefully selected experiments.

The laws of mechanics and heat are studied in the fall term.

During the winter term Electricity and Magnetism, Sound and Light are briefly surveyed.

The apparatus in this department renders it possible to illustrate and to give experimental demonstrations of most of the important phenomena.

Special attention is paid to the solution of elementary problems and written reviews are held every two or three weeks.

Avery's Elements of Natural Philosophy is used as a text.

CHEMISTRY. General Chemistry is taught with Cooley's Chemistry as a text and Remsen's Manual as a laboratory guide.

Special attention is given to the laws, characteristics, and occurrence of the common elements.

The laboratory accommodates thirty-two students and is fitted with the usual reagents and appurtenances. The work is required of the Juniors six hours per week during the winter term. Laboratory fees vary from one to two dollars. The recent large addition of reference books both in Physics and Chemistry will be of great help in the study of these branches.

DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL ECONOMY.

Prof. L. M. McAfee.

Walker's text is used as a basis for consideration of the subject. Attention is devoted chiefly to the production and distribution of commodities. A library of several hundred carefully selected books affords opportunity for more detailed study than the allotted time for class-room work will allow. The text is supplemented by lectures and references to volumes in the library. Application of the principles stated is made to a few of the more simple and pressing questions of the day.

DEPARTMENT OF INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC.

Mrs. S. L. McAfee.

This department meets the needs of those who wish to pursue a course in Piano or Organ Music. Particular attention is given to thoroughness in principles in order that pupils may early experience the practical value of that which is acquired.

While Studies and Exercises are pursued during the entire course they are varied by introducing such selections from good composers as will tend to the greatest advancement of the pupils.

Lessons one hour in length.

Instruments for practice 50 cts. per month.

All pupils are expected to practice at least one hour each day. Term of 20 Lessons $10.00.

THE BOARDING DEPARTMENT.

There have been each year more or less applications for admission to Park College, on the part of students able and willing to pay tuition and board, and it has been the wish of the Board of Trustees to extend the privileges of the Institution to all such, and afford to them the best of educational advantages at a minimum of expense. The facilities for accommodating such in the village are limited, and the Board to meet this demand have set apart Park Hall and certain choice rooms in Woodward Hall, the former for young ladies, and the latter for young men, all of whom, however, boarding at a common table, and being under the supervision of the Manager of the Boarding Department.

Park Hall was finished in 1890 and can accommodate 35 young ladies. It is heated by furnaces and is comfortably furnished. It has an assembly room, where daily devotions are maintained, in charge of the Head of the Department.

Woodward Hall is steam heated and the rooms are comfortable and desirable. In order to maintain discipline, and proper watch over the students, the Trustees require all students not residents of the village or residing with relatives to board in the Department.

Park College in none of its departments is in any sense a reformatory, and no person not of approved character will be admitted to the Boarding Department or to enrollment among the student body. All applicants must furnish any references required by the Head of the Department, preferably the endorsement of the pastor of the church the student may attend. It is the wish and hope of the Board to make the surroundings and college life of the pay student so enjoyable that its present facilities for their accommodation will be insufficient, and to provide additional room as occasion may require.

Expenses.

Boarding, furnished room, fuel and light, $3 per week.

Washing, - - - 50 cents per dozen.

No boarder will be received for less than a term or the unexpired portion of a term, except by special arrangement. All bills in this department must be settled in advance, term by term. Rooms will not be assigned until such settlement is made, and no money will be refunded except in case of sickness or other providential interference.

Each boarder will provide himself with a pair of sheets, a pair of pillow cases, a blanket, napkins and towels, carefully marked with his name.

The boarders will keep their own rooms in order and will be subject to the rules and regulations laid down by the Faculty as to study hours.
